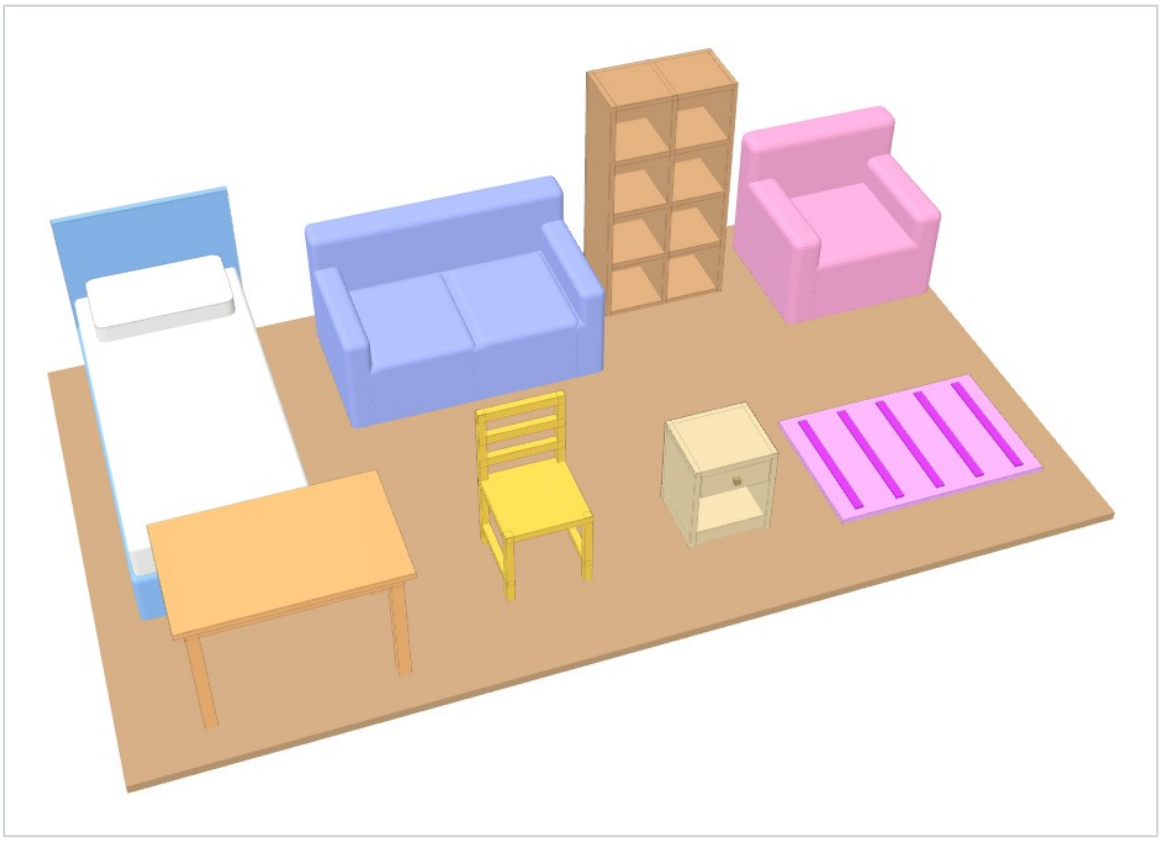
What you're making



How to build it

Which paper

Best: cardstock, the thick craft paper (65-110 lb, 160-220 g/m²). It folds crisply and the pieces stand up on their own.

No cardstock? Print on regular paper, glue each sheet onto thin cardboard like an old cereal box, let it dry, then cut. Regular paper alone is too floppy.

Print at 100%, not "fit to page": the 5 cm ruler at the top should measure 5 cm. You also need scissors, a ruler and a glue stick or white craft glue.

Every piece has a number, printed on it and under it. Parts of the same thing share its number with a letter (5a, 5b). Each grey glue tab says where it goes: "under 1" means glue it under piece 1, "to 5b" means glue it to part 5b.

1. Cut and fold

Cut out each piece on the solid lines, and cut out the windows. Fold every dashed line before you glue; pressing along it first with an empty ballpoint pen and a ruler makes a crisp fold. Glue tabs fold back, behind the piece.

2. The room

3. The furniture

9 Rug: Glue it flat on the floor where 9 is marked, before the furniture.

2 Bed: Fold the four sides down and glue each tab inside the side next to it. Stand the headboard (2b) right behind it and glue its tab to the floor. Fold the bottom tabs in and glue them to the floor where 2 is marked.

3 Sofa: Fold the four sides down and glue each tab inside the side next to it. Fold the bottom tabs in and glue them to the floor where 3 is marked.

4 Bookshelf: Fold the four sides down and glue each tab inside the side next to it. Fold the bottom tabs in and glue them to the floor where 4 is marked.
